to meet that demand, and an excensively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical still, not not may to make the best of all pills—one which alocal bave none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been autorimate for the sacrimonious and irritating to the lowers. This is tot. Many of them produce as much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counter slance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain, unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowel.—Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine found be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several deseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints of the lower of the produce of the laws of appetite. Cough, Group, Asthma and Consumption.

This remedy has won for itself such motoriest from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidence of its virtues in community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and desperate diseases of the langs by its use. When once tried its superiority ever every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerons affections of the pulmonary organs which are inclident to our climate. And not only in formidable satacks upon the langs, but for the milder varieties of Cottas, Cotoms, Hoassenses, see, and for Company it is the picasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by the same Agents.
